YOU'RE A GOOD EGG

Egg-cellent Egg Dying Ideas

Check, Check

Create a check pattern by applying vertical and horizontal lines with washi tape. To create a two-tone effect, dip once in the dye for five minutes for a darker color. Remove tape and repeat for about 3 minutes to create a second lighter shade.

Go Natural

Use natural ingredients like beets, purple cabbage, turmeric, onion skin, coffee grounds, and blueberries to create beautiful hues. Simmer natural ingredients in a cup of water with a dash of vinegar. Leave to soak in the refrigerator overnight for the deepest color.

Rice is Nice

Dye hard-boiled eggs in a spectacular speckled pattern by dropping food coloring onto plain rice. Give it a gentle shake to create this unique dotted color explosion.

Watercolors Wonderful

Let your inner artist loose on a canvas of white eggs. Use inexpensive watercolor paint to dab, draw, cover, and create your masterpiece.

Knot a Bad Idea

Make organic shapes and stripes using twine. Wrap the hard-boiled egg in baker's twine and dye. Allow time to dry and remove string to see the white lines and string marks.

Tattoo Your Eggs

Apply temporary tattoos to your dried, colored eggs. There are so many patterns and designs to choose from!

The Egg Roll

You will definitely be cracking up over this game!

What you need: A hard-boiled egg for each player or team (plus a couple extra if one cracks!), and a large open place to roll the eggs across (either indoors or outside).

How to play: Create a starting line and a finish line. Each player gets a hard-boiled egg. On their hands and knees, they must roll the egg with their nose and ONLY their nose. No hands! Depending on the number of players, you can either race as individuals or as a relay team. Get cracking!

Don't Forget!

Leave carrots out the night before for the Easter Bunny... or maybe a carrot cake cupcake!

HIPPITY HOPPITY

Beyond the Candy!

Update your Easter egg hunt with a new twist for your traditional plastic eggs.

Rewards

On slips of paper, create special reward coupons to be redeemed—like, stay up 15 minutes later, skip a chore for a day, or get an extra bedtime story.

Tricks for Treats

Include a task or trick to complete to receive a candy treat—complete a handstand, sing an Itsy-Bitsy Spider, recite the alphabet backward, name five state capitals, dance like your dad, act like your mom, tell a joke, hop like a bunny. If there is a large age difference, egg hunters can be assigned to a specific color, so their task is age appropriate.

Reverse Roles

Have your kiddos write rewards they want (within reason) and place them in each egg. Let the kids hide the eggs for the parents to find in a given amount of time. The kids get to keep and redeem any unfound eggs!

Treasure Hunt

Each egg can direct them with clues to the next hidden egg. At the end of the hunt, they will find their Easter basket of treasure!

Egg Relay Race

One kiddo goes to find a hidden egg. Once one egg is found, they run back to the next person who hunts for an egg. They win when their team has found all of the eggs. (Remember to count the number hidden!)

Glow in the Dark

Add a glow stick or a battery-operated tea light inside your plastic egg and hide at night! You may need to fold your glow stick to fit in the egg with candy. Use a little tape to secure closed if needed.

Easter Treat Tag

Create a treat t-shirt for an older teen or parent to wear. Hot glue or use strong tape to adhere a mix of plastic eggs filled with candy, candy bars, snack bags, or small toys directly to the t-shirt. In an open area, the kids can snatch off a prize from the shirt to keep, if they can catch the person! Make sure to attach treats low around the hem for little kiddos to reach and make sure they get an opportunity too.
